DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 18-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claim 18 recites the limitation "the tubular structure" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
4. Claim 20 recites the limitation "drive system" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-3, 5-9, 11-16, 18, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Samson et al. 6143013.
7. Samson et al. teaches a medical tubular structure comprising: a lumen; an overlying layer; a support layer having a contiguous coil element, a braid element or a weave element including a plurality of loops, the support layer attached to the overlying layer at a bonding point and further a free portion, wherein the free portion is slippable relative to the overlying layer (only part that is bonded is shown of 406, the remaining is free); a thermally shrinkable sheath having a plurality of etches on at least its interior surface (col. 15, lines 34-36); wherein the sheath encases the support layer by heat-reduction of 25 percent or less; wherein the sheath comprises PTFE, Teflon, FEP and/or PFA (col. 11, lines 25-34); wherein the support layer includes the contiguous coil element comprised of a wire and a plurality of gaps between each loop; wherein the length of each gap is about 10-200 percent of the width of the wire (see figures); and an operating head (most distal section).

8. Claims 18, 20 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ressemann et al. 5501694.

9. teaches an intracorporeal medical device comprising: an operating head, and a catheter comprising: a lumen; a support layer encasing the lumen and having a contiguous coil element, a braid element or a weave element including a plurality of loops, the support layer attached to the overlying layer at a bonding point and further a free portion, wherein the free portion is slippable relative to the overlying layer; a thermally shrinkable sheath (col. 12, lines 6-8) having a plurality of etches on at least its interior surface; wherein the sheath encases the support layer by heat-reduction of 25 percent or less; a drive shaft; and a control system.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 4, 10, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Samson et al.

12. Samson et al. teaches a device that is flexible yet highly resistant to kinking. Samson et al. fails to teach about what radius the device can go without kinking. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to adjust the flexibility of the device to a desired range before kinking, since it has been held that where the general condition of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.
